

1

Town Hall Plaque

Just inside to the right as you enter
Three enslaved men fought in the Battle of Lexington, April 19th, 1775

Esq. Gardner's Adam

Esq. White's Peter

Esq. Boylston's Prince

2

Boylston St.

The Boylstons were a Brookline slave owning family. A number of their enslaved people are buried in the Brookline
Cemetery (Old Burying Ground).

3

Plaque outside the Brookline Cemetery
(Burying Ground) at the corner of Walnut and Chestnut Streets.

4

Brookline Cemetery (Burying Ground)

Enslaved people, slave owners and abolitionists are buried here.

5

182 Walnut St. (private home)

Tappan-Philbrick House, a stop on the Underground Railroad. In 1850 Ellen
Craft hid here escaping from slavery.

6

Roland Hayes lived at 58 Allerton St.

(private home). He broke the Color Bar by singing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the early 20th Century.